

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

IN. 09/38473

5 A digital data processor comprising a stack storage having a plurality of locations classified into two or more banks, and a stack pointer circuit pointing to one or more stack banks of the stack storage. The stack pointer circuit operates in response to decoding signals from an instruction decoder which decodes a current instruction to determine whether a one-word or a multi-word stack operation is desired.